GAS AGAIN

Pipe This Time—Domestic Company Begins Distribution—Begins Work at Once—Possibly Completed by May 1st.

Last Saturday afternoon citizens of Glendale woke up to a startling realization of the fact that gas pipe was being distributed on Glendale avenue. Investigation disclosed the fact that the Domestic Gas company had made another move in the game and that several loads of three-inch wrought iron pipe were being distributed along Glendale avenue. Since that time various things have occurred which seem to indicate that at last the company really intends to do business. Mr. Berkely, a gentleman who understands gas from its creation to its ultimate extinction, has been in conference with the city trustees and has outlined the plans of the company.

He expected to meet with them at the regular session Wednesday evening, but was unavoidably detained by an accident to his machine and came out Thursday and met the board in special session. At this meeting a resolution was adopted permitting the gas company to lay its mains on Glendale streets, a bond of $4000 being required of them to guarantee the streets being repaired after pipes are laid, work to be done subject to the street superintendent. A map was submitted by Mr. Berkely showing the portions of the city in which the distributing system is now to be laid. There will be a three-inch main on Glendale avenue, and a four-inch one on Central avenue. The portion of the city between Central avenue and Glendale avenue will be thoroughly covered, but the present plans do not contemplate service east of Adams street, while the section between Orange Grove avenue and Ninth street, east of Glendale avenue, is also omitted from present plans, a line extending eastward from Glendale Ave. to Adams on 9th St. The members of the board would have preferred to require that pipes be laid in alleys where they exist rather than in the streets, but the city attorney advised that the power of the city under the constitution (which gives corporations nearly everything they want) is limited and that practically the company could come in on its own terms. A letter from Mr. W. G. Kerckhoff, president of the Domestic company, and of the Pacific Light and Power Co. to Mr. Blackburn of the Board of Trustees, announces the intention of the company to go ahead with the work as rapidly as possible although no time limit is set. Mr. Berkely stated as a possibility that the work might be completed in three months. It is understood that the supply of gas will be brought from the company's mains in East Los Angeles, following the route of the San Fernando road to Tropico

SPORTING NEWS.

The second Glendale City baseball team certainly did treat the Harvard team of Los Angeles to a surprise by defeating them 14 to 9 last Saturday on the new Glendale City ball grounds. Smaller and younger by years they simply played rings around the Harvard boys and much credit is due to the work of F. Flores, pitcher, and K. Barrager, catcher, although the whole team worked like a well-oiled clock.

Today at 2 p.m. the Sixth Street and the Fourth Street Grammar School teams play the first of a series of games between these two schools, and Tropico and West Glendale schools, for the championship. Mr. Valentine will award a cup to be purchased from the collections at the games to the team winning the most games. Needless to say the whole valley will turn out early to see the first game.

Mr. Valentine is having a new grand stand built. The bleachers will be of surfaced lumber. Mr. Everett is the contractor superintending the work. On Washington's birthday the crack Santa Monica high school team is planning to play Glendale city and a crowd no doubt will attend.

Mr. Eves kindly furnished the pipe and installed the water connections on the ball park for the sprinkling of the diamond during the hot dry days to come.

The new suits have been ordered for the baseball team and the boys will appear in them on Washington's birthday. Merchants, get together and help a little on the subscription paper being circulated to raise money for the suits. Grandstand tickets to the full amount of the donation will be given each subscriber to the fund.

A New Social Club

"Thornycroft Club," this club, recently organized, held its third meeting at Thornycroft farm, from which the club takes its name, Thursday night, February 3rd. The club was entertained with a dance, followed by light refreshments, served in the usual good style of Thornycroft, by its hostess, Mrs. H. L. Miller. It goes without saying that everybody enjoyed themselves, as Mrs. Miller is past master in the art of entertaining. Quite a number from Los Angeles were present. The club meets at the homes of its members twice a month.

GLENDALE AND VICINITY

A Good Write-up in the Los Angeles "Times"

The Los Angeles Times of Sunday last had a very good report showing the progress being made by this section, written by Mr. Robert H. Willson, from which we clip the following:

First door north of Los Angeles—this is the new address of Tropico, Glendale and the San Fernando valley. Since the annexation of Hollywood a straight line drawn from the northwest corner of Los Angeles to the southwest extremity would include a section of the famous valley, peopled by 5000 suburbanites.

Los Angeles is going out to meet the Owens river on its way down from the mountains. Whether or not the city boundaries shall spread over the hills to absorb more territory, the spirit of municipal progress is already there and the entire valley is witnessing the dawn of a new day of development.

The building of a populous suburb along the Glendale electric line during the past four years has been one of the marvels among the scenes of rapid development in California. But now, in the atmosphere of expectancy that prevails from Tropico to Chatsworth Park, it is apparent the real era of progress is to begin with 1910.

* * *

San Fernando Road is the main artery of the valley and its improvement as part of the good roads system will have a marked influence toward immediate activity. Tropico stands as the gateway between the valley and the city. At this point there are many signs of a new and substantial impetus. The Baumeister-Salyer piano factory is being built a little north of the center of town, G. H. A. Goodwin is opening a large subdivision, the Tropico Art Tile Works are being enlarged and the old Richardson ranch, where strawberries have been raised for years, is about to be transformed into a fine residence district, with cement walks and curbs, oiled streets and $4000 to $5000 houses and bungalows. A bank is one of the proposed features for the center of town and new business blocks will coon be erected.

* * *

Two new transportation factors have entered the situation. A daily motor-car service is maintained between the town of San Fernando and the city by the Southern Pacific. Motor-car service is promised on the Salt Lake road, running through the old section of Glendale and entering Verdugo Canyon where extensive improvements are under way.

The independent electric road connecting the Pacific Electric line at Glendale with the Los Angeles Railway line in Eagle Rock valley, has been operating on Fourth street for ten days and opens a route to Highland Park, Garvanza and Pasadena without coming into the city.

Growing Fast.

Glendale itself is growing more rapidly than ever. Where lots were sold by the hundred during the real estate activity, houses are now going up. Real estate dealers say that 90 per cent of the present customers are buying to build and that the 10 per cent buying for investment are securing acreage to be divided for homes.

Three years ago the trolley service to Glendale consisted of a small car run every half hour, and except for one or two trips a day half of the seats were vacant. Now the big three-car trains are crowded and the trolley officials are at a loss to taek care of the traffic on a double track line.

The business section of Glendale, in that time, has grown from a corner grocery store to half a mile of modern buildings.

New Palaces.

The development north from Glendale to the Verdugo Mountains is likewise impressive. Some of the most costly residences in the valley are being built in that district. The Pacific Electric Company has recently acquired a large addition to its park at Casa Verdugo and is beautifying the grounds. General Manager McMillan is laying out one of the canyons for a private country estate that will rival the famous homes of Southern California. From his residence for two miles along the foothills stretches one of the most magnificent districts for country homes in the world. John Brockman, a millionaire, who has recently come to Los Angeles, is completing a palatial residence in the midst of a tract of nearly a hundred acres. Running far up into the mountains, he has fenced off a deer park, and his scheme for landscape architecture in the lower part of his grounds promises one of the show places of the coast.

Frank P. Fay has purchased seventy acres adjacent to this place for $10,000, including Fox's Canyon and a large tract of mountain land, valuable only for its landscape features. Along this same natural terrace, covered with orange groves and fruit orchards and commanding a view of the valley for thirty miles, with mountain ranges on every hand, are the residences of Neal Dow, F. L. Keller, George Mitchell, Dr. S. S. Black, Dan Campbell and L. C. Brand, ranging in value from $20,000 to $100,000, Kenneth road, the thoroughfare, figures as the "Orange Grove avenue" of the San Fernando valley.

Glendale already is built nearly half way to Burbank. Burbank itself, with a location having certain advantages over any other part of the valley as a residence district, awaits the coming of a car line. It has been promised often and sometimes the movement has gone as far as securing a large proportion of the right of way. Property in Burbank has advanced beyond reasonable agricultural values, but is being bought up by those who appreciate that it is still cheap for the suburban residential sites when the car line comes.

PROGRESS OF ELECTRIC LIGHT WORK—SATISFACTORY SHOWING.

The continued good weather of the last few weeks has helped greatly the work of installing the new lighting plant. Since the starting of the work early in December there have been less than three working days during which outdoor work has had to be abandoned and advantage has been taken of this to set the poles throughout a large portion of the town. For a few days, when the longer poles were to be erected, a derrick mounted on a dray was brought in from Pasadena. This, with a crew of three men and a driver, set from a mile and a half to two miles of poles a day, even when setting the heavier poles and where the work was hampered by trees and other wires. Some of the poles, where the high tension line crosses Fourth street, are fifty-five feet high, but the derrick handled them almost as easily as the shorter poles.

The high-tension line up to the new transformer house is almost completed. The poles in this line run from forty-five to fifty-five feet in length, bringing all of the circuits above all other wires. The transformer house is completed and ready to occupy as soon as the equipment arrives. The large station transformers are now on the way and should arrive within ten days, and the other equipment should be here soon afterwards.

Part of the materials for the street lighting fixtures have arrived and the rest is expected at any time now. In all of the line work that has been done the street lighting wires have been strung and the street lighting system should be in operation over a large portion of the town within six weeks, unless held back by non-arrival of material.

The board of trustees has authorized the sale of $14,000 more of the bonds voted last June to complete the system, as originally contemplated. This will leave $6000 of the bonds unsold.

It is expected that this money will be available immediately for extending the lines over the eastern portion of the city and for filling in all gaps now existing throughout the western part. It is the intention to extend the lines to every one within the limits who desires current. All new lines are being built in the most substantial manner and in such a way as to require the least possible expenditure for maintenance and renewals, and all of the old lines where retained are being put in first-class shape to handle the increased business.

New consumers are being connected and applications are constantly coming in from portions of the city not yet reached by the lines.

The operating fund is showing a substantial margin above operating expenses, and whatever doubt there may have been as to the ability of the plant to pay all of the obligations incurred by it has entirely vanished.

FRATERNAL BROTHERHOOD—INITIATION AND SOCIAL.

The local lodge of the Fraternal Brotherhood at Odd Fellows hall last Friday evening initiated a class of eight new members and had a delightful social time afterwards during which music and dancing served to while away the time until luncheon was served. The drill team of the Hermosa lodge, Los Angeles and officers of that lodge conducted the initiation ceremonies. Afterwards in open meeting the team went through many intricate and beautiful evolutions, winning hearty applause for their fine work. The president of Hermosa lodge, Mr. Stick, was among the visitors and conducted the ceremonies. Mr. Bailey, the organizer for the fraternity, who has been working in this field for a fortnight, has returned to Los Angeles.

MOVING PICTURE SHOW FOR GLENDALE.

Our contention that all good things are coming our way, received additional support this week when Messrs. Heard and Young, two young men from Los Angeles, secured a three months' lease of the Filger Opera house in which to give a series of moving picture shows. These gentlemen have been engaged in the same line of business in the nearby city for some time past. They start out with a representation of the Passion Play, a high-class production. No performances will be given on Sundays.

CITY TRUSTEES

More Lighting Bonds to be Sold—Dogs to b Muzzled—Question of Lowering Railroad on Brand Boulevard Taken Up—Special Meeting to Discuss Gas

All members present. A long list of demands was presented and referred, being principally on the electric light department.

Previous demands referred were reported back approved. The committee of the whole reported that in the matter of determining grades for streets where the same cross Brand boulevard, it would recommend that the city engineer be requested to make a written report showing the elevations on Brand boulevard at the intersections of cross streets and the elevation of the railway tracks at the same points. It was so ordered.

The ordinance and judiciary committee reported having consulted Judge A. M. Stephens concerning the transfer clause in the Fourth street franchise and that an opinion would be ready by next meeting. The finance committee reported that in the matter of sale of additional electric light bonds, it had found that the condition of the bond market is not as good as when the other bonds were sold and the best premium to be obtained on $14,000 worth of bonds is $300 and accrued interest. On motion the president and treasurer were authorized to make the sale of 28 bonds for amount stated. Various reports from city officials were received and filed.

The report of the health officer recommended that stringent measures be adopted to prevent the further spread of hydrophobia.

A report of the city engineer showing the elevations at intersections of cross streets with Brand beoulevard, was ordered filed and a copy sent to the Pacific Electric Railway company with request for a conference with the board of trustees for the purpose of determining a grade at intersections of streets along Brand boulevard. Request of Geo. B. Mock for 60 days' extension of time for completion of Sixth street and forty days for completion of Seventh street was granted.

A communication was received from the W. C. T. U. stating that funds have been secured for the erection of a drinking fountain and requesting the board to suggest a suitable site for the same. Referred to the public works committee.

By resolution the contract for the improvement of Third street was awarded to Geo. B. Mock. An ordinance amending Ordinance No. 21 was read first and second times.

The matter of compensation for volunteer firemen was brought to the attention of the board by City Marshal Miller and referred to the committee on public safety.

The board made an order requiring all dogs within the corporate limits to be muzzled or led for a period of 60 days.

The city attorney was requested to give a written opinion on the rights of the city in reference to requiring the lowering of the railroad tracks on Brand boulevard.

It was ordered that persons having previously secured dog license tags, be given tags for the current year. The city attorney was requested to give an opinion on the selling of cigarettes to minors.

Upon this evening Miss Suzanne Dean, of Los Angeles, who has delighted Glendale audiences at the Tuesday Afternoon club and the Country Club will by request give a reading. All interested are invited.

About noon last Tuesday the drying kiln of the Glendale Planing mill adjoining the Ganahl lumber yard near Glendale avenue and Second street, caught fire as it does periodically and for a while caused considerable excitement. The fire department responded promptly and soon put out the flames with two streams from nearby hydrants. The contents of the kiln were spoiled.

GLENDALE, CAL., FEBRUARY 5, 1910

TO ADVERTISERS AND PATRONS GENERALLY

Our issue of February 12th will have some features of special interest and value for distribution among eastern friends, and visitors in our midst. One hundred copies of this issue will be left at the Chamber of Commerce, Los Angeles, for general distribution. One feature which will be found on the first page, will be a classified directory of our advertising patrons, including advertisers in the "News" whose regular bills amount to or exceed one dollar per month. This directory will be kept standing, with such changes made as may be necessary, and will appear at least once a month in the "News" hereafter, thus giving our advertisers the publicity which they merit.

THE GLENDALE NEWS

To remind us that a few warm days do not make a summer, the mercury has dropped to the freezing point again. Don't be in a hurry about planning for a stay at the beach nor the planting of your garden stuff.

Flammarion, the French astronomer, prophesies that the earth will pass through the tail of Halley's comet next May, but nothing particular will happen in consequence, which relieves Mr. Halley of considerable responsibility.

A loaf of bread every day for thirty days to every needy person in Paris. It is a large contract, but Rodman Wanamaker, of the United States, is good for it. After the trouble is over, Andrew Carnegie will probably give them a library and John D. Rockefeller endow a Parisian university!

The redivivus of the Domestic Gas Company in Glendale, with some substantial evidence of good intentions, will be properly received by our people. This time they do not make any ninety-day promises. We hope that it means a satisfactory solution of the light and fuel question and shall judge the company by results only.

GLENDALE CITY ELECTION.

The Glendale city election will take place on Monday, April 11th, for the election of three trustees, city clerk, city license and tax collector and marshal. Two trustees will be elected for four years and one for a two-year term. Nominations must be made by petition on the form prescribed by law.

REGISTRATION.

Before the general election takes place next fall, every voter must re-register in order to be qualified to vote; the registration closing forty days previous to election. Voters now residing in the precincts in which they are registered, can vote on their old registration at municipal and local elections. But voters registered elsewhere than in the precinct in which they desire to vote, must re-register, and must do this 25 or more days previous to election.

Within a few days a deputy county clerk for Glendale will be appointed so that voters can register here.

DOGS—OWNERS TAKE NOTICE!

The city fathers in their hours of ease discuss all things from dogs to fleas, two subjects not so far apart as north and south pole, nature, art or as the difference between Mumm's Extra Dry and kerosene. But generally when not rolling logs they stick quite closely to the dogs and many an evidence do they pass upon the subject, but alas, the dogs get through them cheek by jowl and then you hear the marshal howl! The curs they seem to multiply as though they fell down from the sky; it must be that for never sand produced such crops in this dry land. One might suppose the city dads would have some other kind of fads into the jaws of which to slip and get surcease from statesmanship. But they return each time with glee and dog-gone pertinacity, and frame another ordinance in cheerful hope that it, purchance, will fix the canine status so that dogs will surely have to go. The latest of these dread decrees —labeled "Re dogs and cognate fleas," fixes a tax of two plunks per, upon each now existent cur. So please take notice owners all, of black dogs, white dogs, short or tall, that if you do a dog possess, dig up two dollars and no less! Oh captains of the ship of State! In your puisant hands the fate of every Glendale dog is placed, See to it that they all are chased, or short or poisoned, drowned in brine; but say, this means my neighbor's dog, not mine!

THE LOCAL NEWSPAPER—GENERAL AND PARTICULAR.

The San Fernando Press in referring to the anti-meat-eating crusade, points with pride to its advertisements of the meat shops of the town to prove that meat can be secured there at from two to three cents per pound less than in Los Angeles. Our contemporary has struck the most vital point in connection with the question of the value of advertising. It can be expressed in a sentence: the merchant who really believes that he has goods to sell that it will pay the people of the immediate community to buy, will exert himself to make his belief known. The merchants in suburban towns are handicapped to some extent by the fact of the existence of larger stores in the nearby city, and yet there are some factors in their favor which make the contest not so unequal as it may appear on the surface. The smaller store is run at relatively less expense, and the proprietor being in closer touch with his patrons, can the better acquaint himself with their needs and cater to them accordingly. He does not always do so, however, and so as a matter of fact, satisfactory goods cannot always be secured in the small town at as low prices as in the city. The merchant, therefore, who feels that he can do this will naturally wish to call the attention of the people to the fact.

As we have said before, the local paper can scarcely be so bad as not to deserve the support of every person pretending to do business in the place in which it is published. The newspaper differs from any other business in this, that it is not merely a concern run for the sole benefit of the proprietor, but is more in the nature of a co-operative enterprise for the benefit of the whole community. The columns of any properly conducted paper are open to any one who wishes to give fair expression to his ideas for the general welfare, and usually without cost. The proprietor invests his money in it in the belief that the community will pay for what it receives and the editorial columns are devoted to a fair presentation of matters of general and local interest to which the editor has probably given more thought than the bulk of his patrons, busy in other pursuits, are able to do. The local newspaper should be in every household in the community in which it is published and when receiving loyal support, whether it rises to the occasion or not, it has within it under such circumstances at least the possibility of being a wonderful power for good. A person's loyalty to the community in which he lives, can in no other way be so fairly tested as by the support he gives to the home paper.

SHALL IT BE GREATER GLENDALE OR NOTHING?

It has not yet come to the point where it is a serious question, but there is more or less "annexation" talk in the air and it is therefore a matter of general interest. As intimated in our last issue, there is but little cause to doubt that Los Angeles at the election of Feb. 18th will annex the hills of Los Feliz and Ivanho, the river bottom section and the southerly portion of Tropico as far as the track of the Southern Pacific railroad. This will bring Los Angeles within a mile of Glendale. Do we want it any nearer? Do we want to be absorbed?

These are questions which will be discussed more or less for months to come, whatever the outcome may be. We notice that a new committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has recently been appointed, which will have for one of its duties a consideration of the question of further annexation of territory, and will report when the occasion arises upon the desirability of otherwise or any such projects. This is an intimation that the acquisition of more territory by Los Angeles is considered by some of the leading men of that city, as of questionable value. It is quite probable that the thought has been borne in upon the minds of some of them that acquisition of new territory carries with it responsibilities which cannot always be evaded however long they may be shirked. The experience of the people in newly annexed territory has not been of a kind to pass as encouraging to other communities that are debating the question. There is a hazy idea prevalent in some quarters that low taxes prevail in the nearby city. This is probably based upon the low tax rate levied for municipal purposes. The low tax rate of Los Angeles is a deceptive quantity. It is maintained by a high valuation of property, in many cases almost twice as high as the valuation by the county, so that a tax rate of one per cent in the city is the equivalent of two per cent in the country. A vague idea is also prevalent that in some mysterious way the county tax will be eliminated when within the confines of the metropolis. This, of course, is not the case. Tropico, for instance, if annexed would still be saddled with its old bond issues for school purposes and have its taxes diminished in no way except by the relief of 55 cents a hundred levied by the county for road purposes; but neither would the county any longer take care of its roads, while it would probably take a court decision to determine whether the projected highway through that territory, planned by the highway commission for the San Fernando road, would be built or not. Then the saving of the 55 cents would be offset by the liability of heavy bond issues that will continue to be levied in Los Angeles, and the proportion of the general tax levied for municipal purposes. As far as the question of taxes is concerned, there is little doubt but that the burden would be considerably increased. On the other hand, the benefits to be received are problematical, if any resulted they would be gained only by hard and persistent work.

We have only heard one or two people in Glendale express a desire to be absorbed into the larger municipality. Glendale people are well satisfied with the experiment of home government; they have done things of which they are justly proud. The creation of a city government has enabeld them to get good streets, protection from fire, a city light plant, brick blocks and a large number of flourishing business concerns, not to mention the rapidly increasing number of homelike homes. And the cost of it is only a slight advance in taxes over adjacent territory outside.

It would require a fertile imagination to conjure up benefits which Los Angeles could confer upon Glendale. We do not need the Owens river water as we have an abundant supply near at hand for the needs of a municipality as large as Greater Glendle will be when it has emulated Los Angeles and annexed everything from the river to the mountains and from Burbank to Eagle Rock or beyond!

Ultimately Los Angeles county will have one government for all the towns and territory within its limits, but it will be modeled after the borough system in which every town will have one or more representatives upon the general board of control of the county, at the same time having entire control of its local affairs except in those particulars in regard to which it proves to surrender them to the general government. Until some such system is adopted, we will no doubt keep Los Angeles at a distance—a mile, at least!

In the meantime, however, we should strengthen our municipality by extending its boundries and taking in all the adjacent territory, now only separated from us by imaginary lines which are not of nature's making. This community should be one in everything that the name implies, a united harmonious people working together to build here another Pasadena. We invite our patrons to express themselves upon this subject through the NEWS upon either side of the question, which we shall agitate more or less from this time forward until the question comes to a vote, and then perhaps again.

GOOD WORK.

"Law Enforcement" is the theme treated in the January issue of The Searchlight, the official organ of the Anti-Saloon League of Southern California, which devotes all of its many columns to a careful review of the excellent work done during the past few years by Capt. J. D. Fredericks, district attorney of Los Angeles county, in enforcing the law. Blind pigs, gambling joints, social clubs and road houses he has put out of business by the scores.

During the twelve months ended December 31, 1909, booze was confiscated by the district attorney, (by pouring it into the Los Angeles sewer) in the following quantities: 17 barrels of wine, 50 gallons each; 4 five-gallon demijohns of wine; 15 one-gallon demijohns of wine; 18 cases of beer (4:2 quart bottles); 60 bottles of assorted liquors, sherry, port, whiskey, cordials and gin; 30 gallons of whiskey in different sized bottles.

Capt. Fredericks has made the following record of fines for the past seven years: Paid during 1903, $3095; during 1904, $4400; during 1905, $11,248; during 1906, $2230; during 1907, $3775; during 1908, $7362; during 1909, $5122; total, $37,232.

"Faithful as a clock" is the way The Searchlight characterizes the district attorney in his work of prosecuting the law breakers. To quote further: "Such a public official is a priceless treasure in any community in which he is in authority, and should be highly appreciated by the people of whom he is a public servant."

Mr. Brown, of Ye Olde Tailor shop at Fourth and Franklin, has not closed, as has been reported. Mr. Brown has been ill for some time and the shop was closed, but he is now well again and his place is open for business.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING.

The real estate market may be quoted as good. Dealers are in good spirits and inquiries by people who seem to mean business are numerous. Quite a list of deals have been clinched this week and a number of others are pending. Plans are being made for one or two new blocks in the neighborhood of Glendale avenue and Fourth street. The lumber dealers are doing a good business and carpenters are in demand.

Mr. Odell, near Louise and Dryden streets, has now under construction and plans for nine houses, all first-class and strictly modern, costing from $2500 to $3500, having from five to eight rooms. The first building job done by Mr. Odell in that locality, consisted of a bunch of eight houses, all of which he has sold.

Mr. L. W. Weaver of Schuyler, Neb., and Mr. M. P. Harrison of the First National bank, are planning to erect homes on opposite corners of Third and Kenwood. At Second and Jackson, A. J. Newhall is erecting a $2000 residence.

W. A. Anderson has a contract to build a $2000 residence for Mr. Robertson on Louise street between Third and Fourth.

John Murray is building a house on Louise street near Dryden. F. E. Buckholtz has a contract to erect a $1700 five-room cottage for Mrs. W. W. Hurtt at Myrtle avenue and Remington street. A. J. Eads has contract to build for same.

A. Werniken a cottage on Ivy street near Columbus to cost about $1200.

The Western Building company is building for Fred S. Hahn on Alexandria street near Remington, West Glendale, a $1900 fire-room frame residence. W. A. Anderson has a contract to build for D. Carney on Louise street between Fourth and Fifth a six-room bungalow.

John Murray contracts to build for J. R. Lockwood, in North Glendale, a one-story five-room residence to cost $1300. Mr. Odell near Louise and Dryden streets, has now under construction and plans for nine houses, all first-class and strictly modern, costing from $2500 to $3500, having from five to eight rooms.

Mrs. Jennings, Adams street near Fifth, has secured a permit for an $1800 house to be built by W. H. Sipple.

Parker & Sternberg report real estate moving rapidly and improvements on every hand.

Among the many sales of the week they report the following:

Effie M. Close, lot 10, block D, Glendale Valley View tract, to John A. Cole and Ezra F. Parker, consideration $500.

John A. Cole et al, lot 4 in tract 491 on Louise street, 315x50, to Miss Margaret A. Condon, consideration $650.

Ezra F. Parker et al, lot 10, block D, Glendale Valley View tract, 50x125, to John Moody, consideration $500.

M. Lawson, lot 21, Borthick's tract, 53x145, corner Damasco Court, improved with 6-room house, to John F. Lowrey, consideration $3500.

Sales by Overton Realty Co.: One acre and 5-room house on Sinclair avenue, sold to Dr. M. M. Merrill of Texas, for $2000, who intends to make it a home place.

The one and one-half acre Corbaley property and 5-room house on Sixth street, east of Adams street, to Judge Austin, for $3900. The judge will immediately greatly improve the property.

The three-quarter acre home place of J. Daly, three blocks west of Casa Verdugo, sold to H. Pampalan, $3000.

Business lot on Fourth street sold to A. B. Heacock for $1400.

One-half of these sales were for cash, but there seems to be a great demand for good property on easy terms.

Ernest H. Owen reports the sale of Virginia W. Van Scoyoc's property, located on Valley View Drive, to George A. Shupp of Long Beach, consideration $3000.

AT THE HIGH SCHOOL.

The game last Saturday played by the Glendale Boys' Basket ball team with the Azusa team on the Y. M. C. A. grounds at Pasadena, resulted in victory for the Glendale team as usual, score 35-36.

The same day the Glendale girls won from the Downey team on the home grounds, score 20-6. The league game with Burbank was changed so that it came off last evening (Friday), the result not announced in time to print. The change was made so as to leave all a chance to attend the championship game to be played on the Occidental grounds today between Glendale and Azusa.

F. Mosher from the Pomona school has entered the 11th year class here.

Miss Magowan is yet unable to resume her work, not having recovered from her illness.

The friends of Lester Adams of Eagle Rock, a member of last year's class, were shocked to learn of his death on Wednesday evening. He had been in poor health for several months past, however.

After the examinations of last week, the regular work is resumed with but little variation from the previous outline of work.

Heard & Young of the Central theater, Los Angeles, will present at Filger Opera house in the evenings of Jan. 7th, 8th and 9th, a moving picture representation of the Passion Play, a French production of the original pictures which cost $100,000.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY.

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the past week was a surprise party given by the Baraca boys of the Central Christian church, in honor of Miss Susie R. Gibbs's 18th birthday, at her cozy little home on Oak Drive. Thursday evening, Jan. 27, 1910. The Baracas have elected her as the daughter of their regiment. Brother T. C. Stem, the popular teacher of the Baracas, presented Miss Susie with a beautiful silver mounted fountain pen in behalf of the Baraca class. The evening was enjoyed with some very fine musical selections rendered on the piano by Miss Evalyn Utter and Miss Ford. The piano was also a birthday gift presented to this popular young lady by her parents. At a late hour a very dainty repast was served. With a farewell song, best wishes and hearty congratulations to this fair daughter of the regiment the merry party went homeward bound.

TWENTY-FIRST BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED.

Mrs. Johanna Edwards on Saturday evening last entertained a party of young people and others at her home on East Second street in honor of the 21st birthday of her son, Clarence. The house was tastefully decorated in green and white; games were played and music and refreshments were features of the evening. Among those present were: Mrs. L. Honett, Miss Martha Honett, Miss Amelia Lempke, Miss Irene Tittley, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Anita Olivas, Miss Barbara Askeland, Miss Rena Jackson, Miss Clara Haeg, Miss Anna Haines, Miss Ray; Messrs. Joe Olivas, Arthur Ray, Arthur Haeg, Percy Farrand, Clyde Sinclair, Charley Jones, William Eisler, Mr. Barley, Clarence Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Jas Hoffman, Mrs. Joanna Edwards.

On Lifting Cats and Rabbits.

It is a mistaken idea that the proper way to lift a full grown cat is by the nape of its neck without supporting the lower part of its body with the other hand. It is true that the mother cat carries young kittens by grasping in her mouth the loose skin at the back of her offspring's neck, but a tiny kitten is a very different matter from a large cat, and, indeed, the only way to lift a kitten without squeezing or hurting its soft little body is to lift it by its neck. But after it has grown larger its own weight is too great to be supported by such a bit of skin and fur as is so grasped by the hand, and many a cat suffers perfect tortures by being held in this manner and is quite helpless to run or struggle, as in such a position certain of its muscles cannot be confroned, and it is absolutely at the mercy of its unconscious tormentor.

The same rule should be observed in lifting rabbits by their ears. They should always be partially supported by the free hand and not allowed to dangle with their whole weight straining from their large but necessarily delicate ears.—Watchword.

More Than One Way.

The caller, a man whom he had known in the old town back in Pennsylvania, had dropped in to talk old times with the busy lawyer, and the lawyer had endured it patiently for an hour and a half. Then, unseen by the caller, he pushed a small knob at the end of his desk, and a bell rang in the adjoining room.

"Excuse me a moment, Mr. Hockensplutter," he said, stepping into the other room and proceeding to hold this one sided conversation over an imaginary telephone:

"Hello!"

"— — — —."

"Yes."

"— — — —?"

"No, Bertha, I'll not have time to come home for dinner. It's already 4:30, and I have several hours' work yet to do. I am very busy and have been detained."

"— — — —."

"Yes. Goodby!"

Then he went back to his desk. But Mr. Hockensplutter had already risen to go.—Chicago Tribune.

That Genius Whistler.

Of Whistler Lady St. Helier in "Memories of Fifty Years" writes thus: "He was a genius and had all the defects and qualities of one. To him everything was a joke, the subject of a bonmot. The lightest and daintiest of persiflage was what he excelled in, and one never had a dull moment in his company. He was always late for dinner, arranging the immortal lock of gray hair in its proper place as he came into the room, with apologies and excuses, none of them true—of which he was perfectly conscious and also of the fact that his host and hostess knew that they were not. Wherever he was there would be a circle listening to him, and his ringing laugh would be heard all over the room as he sent his shafts right and left into the joints of the armor of those who were attacking him. It was a great surprise and almost a shock when he appeared as a benedict."

How Eskimos Measure Time.

Writing of the Eskimo methods of measuring time in a region of six months day or night, Harry Whitney in Outing says:

"The Eskimo divides his periods into 'sleeps,' but a sleep does not designate by any means the civilized measure of day and night. It is, in fact, a very uncertain term. Often we traveled from twenty to thirty hours without rest. Now there was no night, and I so far lost count of time that I was not at all certain of dates. Our single marches with the succeeding 'sleep' not infrequently covered a full forty-eight hours, or two ordinary days. The object of these extended marches was to take advantage of good weather and general conditions or because no safe or convenient camping place presented itself in the interim."

Two of a Kind.

There is something about the character of mules that makes their owners at times almost equally stubborn. In the Washington Star this dialogue concerning one if not two such animals is reported:

"Why don't you get rid of that mule?"

"Well, suh," answered Erastus Pinkley, "I hates to give in. If I was to trade that mule off he'd regard it as a personal victory. He's been tryin' foh de las' six weeks to get rid o' me."

An Injustice.

When George III. first met Sir John Irwin, a thirsty soul, he remarked facetiously, "They tell me, Sir John, you're fond of a glass of wine."

"Your majesty," gravely responded the courtier, "your informants do me a great injustice. They should have said a bottle."—St. Louis Republic.

He Remembered.

Wife (revisiting the scene of her betrothal)—I remember, Algernon, so well when you proposed to me how painfully embarrassed you were. Algernon—Yes, dear, and I remember so well how kind and encouraging you were and how easy you made it for me, after all.—London Tit-Bits.

Experience.

"Experience would be a wonderful asset but for one thing."

"What's that?"

"You can never sell it for what it cost you."

A small bag cannot be made to contain what is large. A short rope cannot be used to draw water from a deep well.—Chinese Proverb.

Turtle and Farina.

Turtle and farina taken together represent to those who live on the Amazon, be they white, negro or Indian or one of the numerous crossbreeds, what the salmon does to the Alaska Indian, the coconnut to the south sea islander and rice to the Mongolian. A short run of salmon in the Alaska rivers, a crop failure in the paddy fields of China, a hurricane in the south sea islands, all reduce to the same thing—famine. On the Amazon a shortage of turtles may be tided over by a plentitude of farina, or vice versa. A failure of both turtles and farina in the same year brings great and widespread distress. Farina is a crude, locally made product of the root of the manioc, a further refinement of which results in the tapioca of commerce. Tapioca is the pure starch of the root, farina the starch mixed with a woody fiber, the latter imparting a yellowish color to the compound. Farina under a number of different names is more or less of a staple with the natives in all of tropical America from the West Indies to Paraguay.—Los Angeles Times.

In Wild Wales.

Tourist—Good morning, my pretty maid. Whose sheep are these?

Shepherdess—They belong to Mr. Goronwy Cadwaladr, sir.

T.—Oh, a very nice name too! And where does he live?

S.—At Fre'rgeifrgwyllton.

T.—Have you been much from home?

S.—Only in Anglesey, sir. I went with my brother and my sister to Llanerchymeddymmondo and from there to see Creigiau Crugyll and came back to Llanfairmathafarneithaf, and then—

T.—Hold hard! Let me breathe a little! Well, where afterward?

S.—Well, my brother had to go back to Chwarel Caebraichycafn and my sister to Llanaethaiarn, but on our way home we went to see the little church by the river—such a funny old fashioned church, sir.

T.—Where is it? I mean what parish?

S.—In Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgagerychwyrndrobwllty siliogogogoch.

T.—Mercy on us! That's enough! However shall I find such a place?—London Spectator.

Suspicious.

During a period of political agitation a stranger arrived in Magdeburg, where, on applying to the authorities, he obtained a permit or ticket of residence. He had not been long in the town before he became aware that his steps were being dogged by a man in blue uniform. He bore it for days, but at last said to the spy: "Sir, do you wish to drive me mad? Why do you pursue me in this way?"

"I am a detective, and my instructions are not to lose sight of you," was the quiet answer.

"Why, what fault have the police to find with me?" shouted the stranger in the greatest excitement. "My passport is in order. Here is my ticket of residence. I am a citizen of Berlin. Why do you follow me about?"

"It states in your passport," was the reply, "that you were going to reside here for pleasure. That looked suspicious, as it is the first time any one came to reside in Magdeburg for pleasure."

Religion in Holland.

The following incident was told me by Lecky in somewhat whimsical illustration of his belief that if religion were to die out of all other European nations it would still survive in Holland: A Dutch peasant was in sore straits about the impossibility of making his hens observe Sunday. He came to his pastor with a present of eggs. He regretted, he said, that he could not prevent his hens from laying these on the Sabbath, but he made what amends he could by giving them to God's minister that they might be handed over to the poor and infirm.—"Old and Odd Memories."

A Long Felt Want.

An American once went to Windsor castle and insisted upon seeing Queen Victoria. He was told that it was quite impossible, as an audience with the queen could be had only by appointment. Still he persisted, and then they told him flatfooted that before seeing the queen he must state the object of his visit. He said he wanted to show her a new piece of furniture, a throne bed—a perfect throne by day and a perfect bed by night.

Her Sad Finish.

"Did you ever know a girl to die for love?"

"Yes."

"Did she just fade away and die because some man deserted her?"

"No. She just took in washing and worked herself to death because the man she loved married her."—Houston Post.

A Helping Hand.

Mistress (hurrying frantically)—Mary, what time is it now? Maid—Half past 2, mum. Mistress—Oh, I thought it was later. I still have twenty minutes to catch the steamer. Maid—Yis, mum. I knew ye'd be rushed, so I set the clock back thirty minutes to give ye more time.—Puck.

Would Be Taken Care Of.

"I fear I am not worthy of you."

"Never mind about that," responded the young lady with the square jaw. "Between mother and myself I imagine we can effect the necessary improvements."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Medium.

"Papa, what is the person called who brings you in contact with the spirit world?"

"A bartender, my son."—Exchange.

He Was a Good Mixer.

There used to be a popular minister in Indianapolis who was well known in Louisville. He was pastor of one of the leading churches of the city. He was built on the plan of the late Henry George, whose motto was, "I am for men." This Indianapolis preacher was what is called a "good mixer." One day he stopped in a blacksmith shop to chat with the workmen. During the visit a florid faced man of prosperous appearance came into the shop. He and the minister began chatting, but neither knew the other's line of business. They became good friends in a few minutes. Finally the florid faced man produced his card, which announced that he was in the saloon business on West street.

"Come down to my place any time," he said, "and I'll show you a good time."

"All right," replied the minister, "and, by the way, I'm running a pretty good place myself. Come and see me, and I'll show you a good time."

"I'll sure do that," said the other. "But, by the way, where is your joint?"

"My joint," was the reply, "is the First Presbyterian church. Just inquire for Myron W. Weed, the pastor, and I'll be at your service."—Louisville Times.

The Military Salute.

All salutes, from taking off the hat to presenting arms, originally implied respect or submission. Of military salutes, raising the right hand to the head is generally believed to have originated from the days of the tournament, when the knights filed past the throne of the queen of beauty and by way of compliment raised their hands to their brows to imply that her beauty was too dazzling for unshaded eyes to gaze upon.

The officer's salute with the sword has a double meaning. The first position, with the hilt opposite the lips, is a repetition of the crusader's action in kissing the cross hilt of his sword in token of faith and fealty, while lowering the point afterward implies either submission or friendship, meaning in either case that it is no longer necessary to stand on guard. Raising the hand to the forehead has also been explained as a sign that the weaponed hand is empty and in an inoffensive position, but this reason does not seem so convincing as the others.

A Toothsome Revenge.

During the reign of Charles II., the age of gallantry, it was the custom among gentlemen when they drank a lady's health in order that they might do her still more honor to destroy at the same time some part of their clothing.

Upon one occasion Sir Charles Sedley was dining in a tavern and had a particularly fine necktie on, whereupon one of his friends to play him a trick drank to the health of a certain lady, at the same time throwing his necktie in the fire. Of course Sir Charles had to do likewise, but he got even, for not long after that, dining with the same company, he drank the health of a fair one, at the same time ordering a dentist whom he had engaged to be present to pull out a refractory tooth which had been troubling him. Every one else was obliged in this manner to mourn a molar.

Great Forests.

Canada owns a forest larger in area than the whole of England, Scotland and Wales all put together. The greatest length of Britain is 608 miles, and its greatest width 325 miles, while a Canadian forest in the Hudson bay and Labrador region is 1,000 by 1,700 miles in extent. Another big forest stretches from Maine to Washington state. The Amazon basin, South America, comprises about 2,100 by 1,300 miles of forest, while Central Africa has a forest region 3,000 miles from north to south and of unknown width from east to west, and the pine, larch and cedar forests of Siberia are 3,000 by 1,000 miles in extent.

Logic.

"What—a boy of your age doesn't know the parts of speech!" exclaimed the schoolmaster.

"No, sir," replied the pupil.

"Haven't you ever heard of a noun?"

"Oh, yes, sir!"

"Well, what comes next?"

"I don't know, sir."

"A pronoun," said the master. "Now remember that. Then comes the verb. Now what follows that?"

"A proverb, please, sir."—London Scraps.

Doing Very Well.

"How's your son making out in business?" asked the first capitalist.

"Very well, indeed," replied the other; "he's got a quarter of a million."

"Why, you started him with a million, didn't you?"

"Yes, and it's two months now since he started operations in Wall street."—Catholic Standard and Times.

A Choice of Calves.

The difficulties the early Virginian colonists had with their live stock is curiously illustrated by the fact that in the colony of Massachusetts Bay a red calf was cheaper than a black one, experience having shown that the former was more likely to be attacked by wolves owing, it was thought, to the wolves mistaking it for a deer.

Deceived.

Edith—You say old Mr. Goldley deceived Edith dreadfully about his age? Gladys—Yes, poor girl! After they were married he confessed that he was only sixty instead of seventy-five.

Genuine Faith Cure.

Towne—Do I understand you to say that Spencer's case was really a faith cure? Browne—Yes. You see, the doctor and the druggist both trusted him.

Foreign Geography.

Children of European birth who were old enough to receive some instruction in geography before coming to this country hold opinions in regard to the political divisions of the earth which all the American geographers and the teachers thereof combined cannot uproot. A New York teacher found that out when she tried to impress upon a young Austrian miss that Columbus is the capital of Ohio.

"It is Cincinnati, on the Ohio," retorted the Austrian maiden politely, but firmly.

Maps and printed text were produced to prove her error. The pupil was in nowise convinced.

"It wasn't that way in our geography at home," said she. And the next day, to uphold her contention, she brought the geography on which she based her assertion. That book was not a perfect product of the geography maker's art, for it certainly did state that Cincinnati, on the Ohio river, was the capital of Ohio.

"But that is a mistake," said the teacher. Then day after day, when the girl was called upon to recite, the teacher put the question of discord. "What is the capital of Ohio?' and day after day, at the risk of bad marks, came the positive reply, "Cincinnati, on the Ohio."—New York Press.

Whelks' Eggs.

Natural soap is not heard of very often, but it not only exists, but is highly prized by Jack Tar in the tropics when the purser reports that the ship's supply of soap has given out. Then all hands are sent ashore to gather a supply of "natural soap," which is found on the shore in the shape of whelks' eggs. The whelk is a little shellfish, or marine mollusk, which in Europe is eaten like mussels, cockles, oysters and clams, but in the tropics it is more highly esteemed for the soap it provides in the shape of its eggs. The eggs are found in a light yellowish mass which is composed of some five or six hundred capsules. One fish alone produces millions of these eggs in the course of the year. They are found on the shores of the Atlantic, but are very profuse on the intertropical coral reefs, where sailors take large quantities aboard for use as soap.

Diamond Cut Diamond.

"Patrick H. McCarren," said a Brooklyn lawyer, "knew how to handle men. He met straightforward men with straightforward methods, and tricky men he bested with wilier tricks than their own.

"Once he illustrated his policy to me with a story. He was like, he said, the rich Peter Higgins.

"When Peter was young and gay two friends, being hard up, put up a game on him.

"'Peter,' they said, 'you might pay us that $2 we lent you.'

"'When did you lend me $2?' said Peter haughtily.

"'Why, night before last, when you were drunk,' was the reply.

"'Oh, yes,' said Peter. 'I remember now. But, hang it, I paid you back!'

"'Paid us back? When?'

"'Last night, when you were drunk. Don't you remember?'"

Didn't Lose His Temper.

There was an elderly East Indian colonel whose boast it was that he had a very tranquil disposition that nothing could ruffle. He took up golf, and for a long time his friends failed to notice any disturbance of the colonel's outward calm, but one day, when playing a foursome, he got into a notorious "devil's punchbowl" bunker and spent a terrible fifteen minutes trying first to find the ball and then to play it out. He tried every club in vain, and at last, glaring like a demon, he smashed them, one after another, across a jagged rock. "What are you doing?" cried the party above. "It's all right!" he snorted. "It's—it's better to—break one's clubs than to—lose one's temper!" And the caddie gathered up the pieces.

Crushing a Lawyer.

De Wolfe Hopper was once a witness in a suit for slander, and the opposing counsel in the court room said:

"You are an actor, I believe?"

"Yes," replied Hopper.

"Is not that a low calling?"

"I don't know, but it's so much better than my father's that I am rather proud of it."

"What was your father's calling, may I ask?"

"He was a lawyer," said Hopper.

Playing It Down Low.

"I haven't much use for Blithersley," said the proud papa.

"Why?" asked the proud mamma.

"I listened to him for an hour today while he told me about what his baby had said or tried to say, and just as I was about to tell him about ours he left me, saying he had to catch a train."—Baltimore American.

By Main Strength.

They were listening to a piano solo at a club after dinner party.

"I know a girl," she whispered, "who played the piano, and she had only four fingers on one hand."

"You'd think from the way this one is playing," said he, "that she hadn't any."—New York Press.

Insulted.

"Have you lived in this town very long, Miss Sear?"

"Of course not! Do I look old enough to have lived anywhere very long?"

His Obligations.

"I owe Pjanks a call."

"Going there this evening?"

"No. You see—er—that isn't all I owe him."—Cleveland Leader.

On a Sailing Vessel.

Instead of the usual routine work on a steamer—paint washing and so forth—the work on a sailing ship varies widely. It may be making or shortening sail, bending or unbending fine or heavy weather canvas, squaring in or bracing up the yards, tacking or wearing ship, and, no matter what the labor, one always had the satisfaction of seeing the result. The speed and sailing qualities of a vessel were things that could be discussed with interest as well as the length of passage. In bad weather, when excitement ran high and cursing was considered quite in order, struggling up aloft with wet or frozen canvas—one hand for the ship and the other for yourself—on a dark, dirty night put a man on his mettle, and should the foresail be handled or the main topsail settled and the cry of "Splice the main brace!" be heard—well, one felt at peace with the world.

In the tropics catching sharks, harpooning dolphins and porpoises, singing, dancing, telling yarns and reading over old love letters are diversions not easily forgotten by those who have experienced them. Being becalmed in the tropics on a beautiful moonlight night brought home to one the beauties and wonders of nature and the existence of a God with whom one felt in closer touch on such nights as those. —A British Marine Officer in Atlantic.

Slightly Acquainted.

As an instance of the "marrying in haste" principle that obtains in some American cities an English lady who visited Chicago relates how her maid, who accompanied her, quickly became imbued with the desire to become Mrs. Somebody.

One morning she appeared before her mistress and, with glowing eyes, announced that she had named the day and would become a wife at the end of the week.

"Are you going back home, then?" the lady asked.

"Oh, no, ma'am; it's an American gentleman," replied the maid.

"But," remonstrated her mistress, "we've only been here a fortnight."

"That's no matter. He wants the wedding to be on Saturday."

"Well, can't you get him to postpone the marriage just a little till I can get another maid?"

"Well, ma'am, I'd like to oblige you; but, you see, I don't feel well enough acquainted to ask him to do that."—London Answers.

A Mean Trick.

"Talking of mean tricks," said the big man, "there was Ballantine. This man Ballantine came in late to a song recital at Palm Beach, and there wasn't a vacant seat in the house.

"Ballantine noticed Mrs. Jerome Blank. Mrs. Jerome Blank, he knew, had a very handsome husband that she kept a strict watch over. She didn't like him to associate with any of the fair sex.

"Ballantine, edging near to Mrs. Blank, who had an excellent seat, said in a loud voice to a friend:

"'Who was that enormously pretty girl I saw Jerome Blank talking to on the pier?'

"In about four seconds Mrs. Blank was gone and Ballantine was seated comfortably in her chair."—Kansas City Star.

A Curious Experience.

Lombroso, the famous Italian criminologist, once had a curious experience. He was in a printing office correcting the proofs in his "Delinquent Man" with the chief reader when on reaching a page which dealt with a young man who, impelled by jealousy, had stabbed his fiancee he made a surprising discovery. The proofreader was this man.

"Suddenly," Lombroso said in telling the story, "he threw himself at my feet, declaring that he would commit suicide if I published this story with his name. His face, before very gentle, was completely altered and almost terrifying, and I was really afraid that he would kill himself or me on the spot. I tore up the proofs and for several editions omitted his story."

Cooking Your Goose.

The phrase "I'll cook your goose for you" originated in this manner: Eric, king of Sweden, coming to a certain town, besieged it, but, having few soldiers, was obliged to desist. The inhabitants in derision hung out from the walls a goose on a pole. Later Eric returned with re-enforcements and in reply to the challenge of the heralds observed that he had come "to cook their goose for them" and proceeded to storm the town and make it hot for the inhabitants.

A Sporting Chance.

"I'll teach you to play at pitch and toss!" shouted the enraged father. "I'll flog you for an hour, I will!"

"Father," instantly said the incorrigible as he balanced a penny on his thumb and finger, "I'll toss you to make it two hours or nothing."—Cassell's Journal.

The Thief of Time.

Teacher—Johnny, what is the meaning of the word "procrastinate?" Pupil—To put off. Teacher—Right. Use it in an original sentence. Pupil—The brakeman procrastinated the tramp from the train.—Cleveland Leader.

There Are Exceptions.

"We are all born equal," quoted the wise guy.

"Don't try to tell that to the mother of a first baby," cautioned the simple mug.—Philadelphia Record.

Jimmy's Recitation.

Jimmy is one of the most enthusiastic members of his Sunday school. He is usually very quiet, but when, soon after he joined, a storm prevented many members of his class from coming to take their parts in a long planned entertainment Jimmy could not endure in silence the distress of his teacher.

"Hi can speak a piece," he said bashfully.

"Oh, can you? What is it about?"

"'Bout the beasts that went with Noah."

"Well, said the distracted teacher, "I haven't time to hear it now, but I think it ought to help fill up. Thank you, Jimmy."

When Jimmy's name was called the small man mounted the platform, put his hands in his pockets and proudly and loudly spouted the following:

The helk and the helephant hentered the hark
When the helephant hopened the hall.
The helk hasked the helephant, "What's to heat?"
Said the helephant, "'Ay is hall."
The helk and the helephant hate the 'ay;
Said the helk, with a heloquent sigh,
"Hi 'ope you are 'appy this 'orrible day."
And the helephant hanswered, "Haye."

Coyote and Jack Rabbit.

The speed of the jack rabbit has always been proverbial among western men, like the speed of a coyote. In a straightaway race it is claimed that the jack rabbit can distance the coyote, but he usually falls a victim to the coyote's superior intelligence. The favorite coyote method for catching jack rabbits is for one of the animals to start a jack and attend to the work of keeping the victim on the run, while the other coyote sits down, patiently awaiting the arrival of his dinner. The jack rabbit when he has a free range will run in circles, and the coyotes cleverly count on this habit. Before long the rabbit will arrive at the place from which he started, and there coyote No. 2, fresh and ready for a short sprint, will swoop down upon him and then divide the meal with the coyote that has done the actual chasing.—New York Press.

Hunting Truffles as Sport.

Quite apart from the interest of fungi to the naturalist the temptation cannot here be resisted to refer to a method of procuring one kind of fungus, which might take rank among the minor sports. This is the fashion, originating in France, of procuring the truffle by the aid of swine and hounds. More ill assorted sporting companions can hardly be imagined. The truffle grows underground. Pigs are particularly fond of these delicacies and, guided by the scent, will discover them by rooting in the earth. After the discovery of the truffles the dogs are employed to beat back the pigs and prevent them from devouring the spoil. And every quality dear to the sportsman of skill and judgment is needed to control and obtain the desired result from the efforts of a herd of swine and a pack of hounds.—London Outlook.

Habits of Seals.

The habits of seals are very interesting. The very young seal is helpless in the water until he is taught by his mother to swim. She takes him into the water daily on her fin and dumps him in and when he gets tired of floundering about places him on her fin again and returns to her camp. When the young seals are well grown they suddenly disappear with their mothers and the bull seals. No one knows where they go, and their return is equally as sudden as their departure. The bulls are the first to put in an appearance at the camping ground. When they arrive they commence at once to prepare a camp for their mates, which they stake off and for which they fight until they die. In the meantime the female seals remain quite a distance from land, floating lazily on the water and seemingly having a good time.

Ant Eaters.

Ant eaters are in the curious position of being practically unable to open their mouths. It may almost be said, indeed, that they have no mouths to open. There is just a small, round orifice at the end of the snout, through which about two feet of wormlike tongue can wriggle out, and as this tongue is bathed with liquid glue instead of saliva every ant which it touches adheres to it, and the animal licks the insects up by hundreds at a time.

Not Up to Modern Standards.

"Your wife's new hat makes her look like a queen," said the man who tries to be complimentary.

"Don't let her hear you say that," answered Mr. Bliggins. "I have looked throught the histories, and I never yet saw a picture of a queen who looked as if she employed a first class milliner."—Washington Star.

Evarts and the Author.

When a popular young author went to see William M. Evarts while he was secretary of state in behalf of a consulship for which he was an applicant Mr. Evarts congratulated him on the fame which he had acquired, but hastened to add, "Although you have laurels on your brows, I suppose you can't browse on your laurels."

Inquisitive.

After Sunday school:

Willie—Did you hear that boy swear, Johnny, when I told him to go away? Johnny—No. (Quietly persuasive) Tell him to go away again and I'll listen.—Manchester Guardian.

Human nature is so constituted that all see and judge better in the affairs of other men than in their own.—Terence.

Lunar Rainbows.

Lunar rainbows are seldom observed in the temperate zone. Very likely the physical phenomenon occurs frequently, but is invisible because of the faintness of the moon's light. In the tropics, where moonlight is more intense, says the Scientific American, lunar rainbows are more frequently observed. They are by no means rare at Reunion island. At all places the phenomenon is most frequently seen at full moon when the moon's light is highest, but it has been seen in various phases of the moon. It was first observed by Aristotle. A lunar rainbow is produced at full moon by the spray of the great Victoria falls of the Yguassu in Brazil.

The Dot Over the "i."

The small letter "i" was formerly written without the dot. The dot was introduced in the fourteenth century to distinguish "i" from "e" in hasty and indistinct writing. The letter "i" was originally used where the letter "j" is now employed. The distinction between "i" and "j" was introduced by the Dutch printers at a comparatively recent date, and the "j" was dotted because the "i," from which it was derived, was written with a dot.

Blue Laws.

The name "blue laws" was given to the first collection of laws framed for the government of the New Haven colony. They were published in collective form in 1650, the volume being in a blue cover, which gave rise to the name that has clung to the laws ever since.

Her Chance.

"Do you," said the notary, "swear that you will tell the truth, the whole truth and"—

"Oh, how lovely!" the fair witness interrupted. "Shall I really be allowed to talk all afternoon if I want to?"

Hope is a flatterer, but the most upright of all parasites, for she frequents the poor man's hut as well as the palace of his superiors.—Shenstone.

The Bank of Glendale

The Express of January 29, in a special from Pasadena says:

The house of William Jones was entered early this morning and the thief escaped with $500, mostly in gold, in a savings bank and box.

Don't let this happen in Glendale

We believe there are very few people here so unwise as to keep such an amount about the house.

If you are one of them, hurry to the bank with it and don't get caught. Do it now. This same thief may visit you next.

An effort is being made by County Tax Collector Welch to clear the records of properties which have been purchased by the State for delinquent taxes, remaining unredeemed. The statutes provide that the State becomes the purchaser in all cases where the owner or owners default in the payment of taxes, and after five years have elapsed, the State takes a deed, and the property is thereupon State property and subject to disposal by public auction to the highest bidder.

The law further provides that after the State takes its deed, the property shall be withdrawn from assessment upon the theory that State property is not assessable; provision is made, however, through a system of penalties, interest and costs, by which the State is reimbursed in the event that a redemption is made, and the property owner usually pays dearly for his neglect for allowing himself to default in the payment of taxes, as these charges are greatly in excess of regular taxes, except in those cases where property values have materially increased since the withdrawal of the property from assessment, in which case, and there are many such, the owner is escaping a just proportion of the burden of taxation.

Hoping to reach such owners as have property in jeopardy, Mr. Welch has segregated these properties into districts for publication in the local papers. The following is a list of the properties in this district which, unless redeemed, will be offered for sale to the highest bidder.

An estimate of the amount necessary to redeem may be had upon application to the County Auditor.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Jan. 20.—Tests were made today of Thomas A. Edison's storage battery car on the tracks of the Public Service company. The car attained a maximum speed of twenty miles an hour and responded in every way to the tests put upon it.

The experimental car is 26 feet long and 7 feet 6 inches wide. It is equipped with two 7½ horse-power motors, and charged to the full capacity of the batteries it will run 150 miles without a renewal of the charge. Edison's car weighs about five tons, or half that of the ordinary trolley car.

Edison meant to make a test run to Philadelphia, but was disappointed to learn that it will be impossible, as the gauge of the tracks south of Trenton is wider than the standard in the northern part of the state.

Edison is working now on a car heater which he says will surpass in radiating power and cheapness any that has yet been produced.

The cost of operating the new car is estimated by Edison to be one cent a mile.

See the moving picture show at Filger Opera house evenings of 7th, 8th and 9th. Only 10 and 15 cents admission.

PARENT-TEACHERS' ART EXHIBIT.

The art exhibit given in the Union High school building under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association was a decided success, the children having shown an enthusiastic interest both in the sale of tickets and in attendance. The prize picture: "The Horse Fair," was awarded to the Sixth street school, which had the highest percentage of tickets sold. The money taken in by the sale of tickets is to be expended for pictures for each school, the amount taken in by each school to be spent by that school. The federation which was recently organized with the following officers: President, Dr. Jessie A. Russell, vice president, Mrs. E. M. McClure; secretary, Mrs. J. F. Pedelford; treasurer, Mrs. M. Rehart, is composed of the three Glendale and one Tropico schools.

The Passion Play to be presented at Filger Opera house Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, consists of 11,000 feet of films. It represents the birth, life, death and ascension of the Savior. Admission 10c and 15c.

THIS NEW YEAR TIME.

(For The News.)

For a home long lost, this New Year time,
My heart with longing fills;
The trail to that home leads far to the East,
To my loved New England hills.

I would sit once more on the red brick hearth,
And watch the oak logs glow;
While the north wind fiercely swirling, lifts
Into drifts the falling snow.

The dear old room was long and wide,
There was space enough for us all;
The heat that spread from the oak log's glow,
Reached to the fartherest wall.

We cared not for fame or fortune then,
And we wandered not far from the nest;
But there came a day with a luring call,
That led to the Golden West.

Gone are they now, the brave and true;
A messenger came for them all;
One by one from our longing sight
They passed with the Reaper's call.

Some were called from the fireside glow,
Out from the dear home nest;
And two who followed the luring trail
Were called from the Golden West.

Here in this beautiful sunset land
I wait, the last of them all;
With a love as true for my home in the West,
As for the lost home I recall.

NOTICE TO VOTERS.

Under the State law, a new registration of voters must be made every even-numbered year.

All voters must register prior to July 27, 1910, and must have declared the political party with which they intend to affiliate (as provided in Sec. 1366a Political Code), who desire to vote at the primary election to be held August 16th, 1910.

If you do not so register and so state your party affiliation you cannot vote at this primary election at which all State and County officers will be nominated.

C. G. KEYES,
County Clerk.

The Bucket Shop.

"Bucket shops"—a name now used to denote small "outside" stockbrokers or financiers not in membership with the Stock Exchange—were so called because when they first started in Chicago the only commodity dealt in by small speculators to any extent was wheat. The legitimate dealers would not handle an order for less than 5,000 bushels, and then a lot of places sprung up where men of limited capital could speculate with very small sums, and these men were spoken of contemptuously as buying and selling wheat by the bucketful; hence shops where a small business was conducted in grain on a margin came to be known as bucket shops. The term was finally extended to cover all brokerage offices where small lots of either grain or stock were bought and sold, and it was applied particularly to those places where both seller and buyer did not more than "gamble" on the rise and fall of stocks.

Bows on Men's Hats.

Why is it that a man's hat has a band, and why is it this band has a bow invariably on the left side?

The answer is that there was a time when a piece of cloth adjusted to the head and tied with a band of other material served for a headpiece. The reason the bow was always placed on the left side had its origin in the fact that in wielding a sword—an accomplishment possessed by nearly every one of consequence at one period of the world's history—the bow or rosette if placed on the right side would have been in the way. Its present day utility is that it keeps most men from wearing their hats hind side before, and, although with most hats that would not matter, with most heads it does.—Chicago Record-Herald.

On the Moon.

The question "Could a man live on the moon?" has been put to an eminent astronomer, who replied: "I am afraid not. A man transplanted to the moon would find himself the lone inhabitant of a perfectly lifeless orb in which eternal silence reigns. He would have to manage without air, water or fire. He would not need to put windows in his house, for there is no wind, no rain, no dust, upon the moon. It has been truly and practically observed that the moon is apparently abandoned to death, nourishing no inhabitants, producing nothing resembling trees, flowers or beautiful things of any kind—useless, in short, except as a mass of extinct volcanic rubbish, which drags the sea into tides and reflects the sunbeams in moonlight."

THAT PROPOSED ANNEXATION.

Editor NEWS:

The only part of Tropico to be taken into Los Angeles by the annexation proposition to be voted on February 18th, is that part of its territory south and west of the center line of the Southern Pacific railroad. It does not include the depot, the lumber yard, planing mill, box factory, machine shop, paint works and the new piano factory. It includes the tile factory and Gal's winery, also the west ends of Tropico and Parke avenue.

As this involves the opening and grading of these avenues into the city and Griffith Park, the proposition is particularly gratifying, especially to the residents of Parke avenue, both inside and outside of the annexation district. The new subdivision, Linda Vista, of G. H. A. Goodwin & Co., just south of the Southern Pacific tracks on the north side of Parke avenue, is within the district. N. C. BURCH.

The home of Mrs. Shoemaker was the scene of much merriment when the ladies of the Thursday Afternoon Club held their regular meeting. Mrs. Shoemaker was assisted by Mrs. Chas. Moser and Mrs. A. Collins. The speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Bauerhyte, from the Maternity Cottage of Los Angeles. She very highly entertained the members, in her own delightful way, telling of the wonderful work of that institution and of its aid in starting other cottages in smaller towns throughout Southern California. The cottage, aside from its regular duties, provides work for the Women's Clubs by bringing to their attention needy families with which the clubs could not otherwise get in touch. During the three years of their existence they have handled sixty-one cases. The usual good time and light refreshments were enjoyed by all.
